Then write the corresponding letter on your answer sheet.

PASSAGE 1

During the seventeenth century a great interest in growing tulips was found in Europe. 1 started in Holland and then spread to other countries. Tulips with brilliant color patterns, in particular, were 2 in demand, and they brought very high prices.

Ordinarily, tulips show just one color. But 3 are variously colored in streaks and other patterns. This kind of 4 is called "tulip break." It is not just an accident that some tulips are solid-colored 5 others have streaks.

In the seventeenth century only a few families knew the secret of growing "broken" tulips. They knew that an unusual flower was 6 mere chance occurrence. The secret was carefully guarded. 7 the method became known throughout Holland. Its simplicity was surprising. All one had to do was 8 the juice of a streaked plant into the solid-colored plant. The following season a bulb that had previously produced 9 solid-colored flowers would send up a shoot with a beautifully-streaked bud.

The streaked tulips were infected with two viruses 10 acted together to affect the coloration of the host. The juice of the plants contained the viruses. Tulip growers were actually spreading tulip viruses.
