Dear Communication & Media Studies Delegates,

Welcome to Vancouver and to the Second International Conference on Communication & Media Studies. The Communication & Media Studies Research Network—its conference, journal, and book imprint—was created to provide an interdisciplinary forum for the discussion of the role of the media and communications in society.

Founded in 2016, the Inaugural Communication & Media Studies Conference was held at the University Center Chicago, Chicago, USA, in September of 2016. Next year, we are honored to hold the conference at the University of California, Berkeley, Berkeley, USA, from 18–19 October.

Conferences can be ephemeral spaces. We talk, learn, get inspired, but these conversations fade with time. This Research Network supports a range of publishing modes in order to capture these conversations and formalize them as knowledge artifacts. We encourage you to submit your research to The Journal of Communication & Media Studies. We also encourage you to submit a book proposal to the Communication & Media Studies Book Imprint.

In partnership with our Editors and Network Partners the Communication & Media Studies Research Network is curated by Common Ground Research Networks. Founded in 1984, Common Ground Research Networks is committed to building new kinds of knowledge communities, innovative in their media and forward thinking in their messages. Common Ground Research Networks takes some of the pivotal challenges of our time and builds research networks which cut horizontally across legacy knowledge structures. Sustainability, diversity, learning, the future of humanities, the nature of interdisciplinarity, the place of the arts in society, technology's connections with knowledge, the changing role of the university—these are deeply important questions of our time which require interdisciplinary thinking, global conversations, and cross-institutional intellectual collaborations. Common Ground is a meeting place for people, ideas, and dialogue. However, the strength of ideas does not come from finding common denominators. Rather, the power and resilience of these ideas is that they are presented and tested in a shared space where differences can meet and safely connect—differences of perspective, experience, knowledge base, methodology, geographical or cultural origins, and institutional affiliation. These are the kinds of vigorous and sympathetic academic milieus in which the most productive deliberations about the future can be held. We strive to create places of intellectual interaction and imagination that our future deserves.

I'd like to thank my Communication & Media Studies Research Network colleagues, Rachael Arcario, Jessica Wienhold-Brokish, and Jeremy Boehme, who have put such a significant amount of work into this conference.

We wish you all the best for this conference, and we hope it will provide you every opportunity for dialogue with colleagues from around the corner and around the globe.

Yours sincerely,

Dr. Phillip Kalantzis-Cope
Chief Social Scientist, Common Ground Research Networks

Our Mission

Common Ground Research Networks aims to enable all people to participate in creating collaborative knowledge and to share that knowledge with the greater world. Through our academic conferences, peer-reviewed journals and books, and innovative software, we build transformative research networks and provide platforms for meaningful interactions across diverse media.

Our Message

Heritage knowledge systems are characterized by vertical separations—of discipline, professional association, institution, and country. Common Ground identifies some of the pivotal ideas and challenges of our time and builds research networks that cut horizontally across legacy knowledge structures. Sustainability, diversity, learning, the future of the humanities, the nature of interdisciplinarity, the place of the arts in society, technology's connections with knowledge, the changing role of the university—these are deeply important questions of our time which require interdisciplinary thinking, global conversations, and cross-institutional intellectual collaborations. Common Ground is a meeting place for these conversations, shared spaces in which differences can meet and safely connect—differences of perspective, experience, knowledge base, methodology, geographical or cultural origins, and institutional affiliation. We strive to create the places of intellectual interaction and imagination that our future deserves.

Our Media

Common Ground creates and supports research networks through a number of mechanisms and media. Annual conferences are held around the world to connect the global (the international delegates) with the local (academics, practitioners, and community leaders from the host research network). Conference sessions include as many ways of speaking as possible to encourage each and every participant to engage, interact, and contribute. The journals and book imprint offer fully-refereed academic outlets for formalized knowledge, developed through innovative approaches to the processes of submission, peer review, and production. The Research Network also maintains an online presence—through presentations on our YouTube channel, quarterly email newsletters, as well as Facebook and Twitter feeds. And Common Ground's own software, Scholar, offers a path-breaking platform for online discussions and networking, as well as for creating, reviewing, and disseminating text and multi-media works.

Communication & Media Studies Research Network

Offering an interdisciplinary forum for the discussion of the role of the media and communications in society

The Communication & Media Studies Research Network offers an interdisciplinary forum for the discussion of the role of the media and communications in society. The research network interacts through an innovative, annual face-to-face conference, as well as a peer reviewed journal and book imprint.

Conference

The conference is built upon four key principles: internationalism, interdisciplinarity, inclusiveness, and interaction. Conference delegates include leaders in the field, as well as emerging scholars and practitioners, who travel to the conference from all corners of the globe and represent a broad range of disciplinary and thematic and perspectives. A variety of presentation options and session types offer delegates multiple opportunities to engage, to discuss key issues in the field, and to build relationships with scholars from other cultures and disciplines.

Publishing

The Communication & Media Studies Research Network enables members to publish through two media. First, research network members can enter a process of journal publication that is grounded in traditional scholarly publishing practices of peer review, but which is more responsive and inclusive—a result of the constructive nature of the conference presentation and peer review process. The Journal of Communication & Media Studies provides a framework for double-blind peer review, enabling authors to publish into an academic journal of the highest standard. The second publication medium is through the book imprint, Communication & Media Studies, publishing cutting edge books in print and electronic formats. Publication proposal and manuscript submissions are welcome.

Community

The Communication & Media Studies Research Network offers several opportunities for ongoing communication among its members. Any member may upload video presentations based on scholarly work to the research network YouTube channel. Quarterly email newsletters contain updates on conference and publishing activities as well as broader news of interest. Join the conversations on Facebook and Twitter. Or explore our social media platform, Scholar.

Rethinking the Mediascape - The Future of Media and Communication

The established mediascape, and its mediums, has been a central point of debate within the recent political landscape. As one of the traditional roles of the media is to be a counterbalance to political or economic power, recent events, for many, mark an entry into a new and unsettling mediascape. In this mediascape we face a new set of realities:

- Where content can legitimately be “post-truth”
- An intensifying cult of personality in online communication
- A fluidness between media, content, and medium
- New kinds of commercial motivation directing the production and dissemination of content in the digital attention economy
- The use of a digital network by shadowy private and state actors hiding behind anonymity

In this new context, what is the role of the media as a counterweight to political or economic power? Who, now, is “the media,” and what are the principles of this new mediascape?

About

The Communication & Media Studies Research Network is dedicated to the concept of independent, peer-led groups of scholars, researchers, and practitioners working together to build bodies of knowledge related to topics of critical importance to society at large. Focusing on the intersection of academia and social impact, the Communication & Media Studies Research Network brings an interdisciplinary, international perspective to discussions of new developments in the field, including research, practice, policy, and teaching.

Membership Benefits

As a Communication & Media Studies Research Network member you have access to a broad range of tools and resources to use in your own work:

- Digital subscription to The Journal of Communication and Media Studies for one year.
- Digital subscription to the book imprint for one year.
- One article publication per year (pending peer review).
- Participation as a reviewer in the peer review process, with the opportunity to be listed as a Reviewer.
- Subscription to the research network e-newsletter, providing access to news and announcements for and from the Research Network.
- Option to add a video presentation to the research network YouTube channel.
- Free access to the Scholar social knowledge platform, including:
 - ◊ Personal profile and publication portfolio page;
 - ◊ Ability to interact and form communities with peers away from the clutter and commercialism of other social media;
 - ◊ Optional feeds to Facebook and Twitter;
 - ◊ Complimentary use of Scholar in your classes—for class interactions in its Community space, multimodal student writing in its Creator space, and managing student peer review, assessment, and sharing of published work.

Present and Participate in the Conference

You have already begun your engagement in the research network by attending the conference, presenting your work, and interacting face-to-face with other members. We hope this experience provides a valuable source of feedback for your current work and the possible seeds for future individual and collaborative projects, as well as the start of a conversation with research network colleagues that will continue well into the future.

Publish Journal Articles or Books

We encourage you to submit an article for review and possible publication in the journal. In this way, you may share the finished outcome of your presentation with other participants and members of the research network. As a member of the network, you will also be invited to review others' work and contribute to the development of the research network knowledge base as a Reviewer. As part of your active membership in the network, you also have online access to the complete works (current and previous volumes) of journal and to the book imprint. We also invite you to consider submitting a proposal for the book imprint.

Engage through Social Media

There are several ways to connect and network with research network colleagues:

Email Newsletters: Published quarterly, these contain information on the conference and publishing, along with news of interest to the research network. Contribute news or links with a subject line 'Email Newsletter Suggestion' to support@oncommunicationmedia.com.

Scholar: Common Ground's path-breaking platform that connects academic peers from around the world in a space that is modulated for serious discourse and the presentation of knowledge works.

Facebook: Comment on current news, view photos from the conference, and take advantage of special benefits for research network members at: <http://www.facebook.com/CommunicationMediaStudies>.

Twitter: Follow the research network @onmediastudies and talk about the conference with #ICCMS17

YouTube Channel: View online presentations or contribute your own at <http://cgnetworks.org/support/uploading-your-presentation-to-youtube>.

The principal role of the Advisory Board is to drive the overall intellectual direction of the Communication & Media Studies Research Network and to consult on our foundational themes as they evolve along with the currents of the field. Board members are invited to attend the annual conference and provide important insights on conference development, including suggestions for speakers, venues, and special themes. We also encourage board members to submit articles for publication consideration to The Journal of Communication and Media Studies as well as proposals or completed manuscripts to the Communication & Media Studies Book Imprint.

We are grateful for the continued service and support of these world-class scholars and practitioners.

A Social Knowledge Platform

Create Your Academic Profile and Connect to Peers

Developed by our brilliant Common Ground software team, Scholar connects academic peers from around the world in a space that is modulated for serious discourse and the presentation of knowledge works.

Utilize Your Free Scholar Membership Today through

- Building your academic profile and list of published works.
- Joining a community with a thematic or disciplinary focus.
- Establishing a new Research Network relevant to your field.
- Creating new academic work in our innovative publishing space.
- Building a peer review network around your work or courses.

Scholar Quick Start Guide

1. Navigate to <http://cgscholar.com>. Select [Sign Up] below 'Create an Account'.
2. Enter a "blip" (a very brief one-sentence description of yourself).
3. Click on the "Find and join communities" link located under the YOUR COMMUNITIES heading (On the left hand navigation bar).
4. Search for a community to join or create your own.

Scholar Next Steps – Build Your Academic Profile

- About: Include information about yourself, including a linked CV in the top, dark blue bar.
- Interests: Create searchable information so others with similar interests can locate you.
- Peers: Invite others to connect as a peer and keep up with their work.
- Shares: Make your page a comprehensive portfolio of your work by adding publications in the Shares area - be these full text copies of works in cases where you have permission, or a link to a bookstore, library or publisher listing. If you choose Common Ground's hybrid open access option, you may post the final version of your work here, available to anyone on the web if you select the 'make my site public' option.
- Image: Add a photograph of yourself to this page; hover over the avatar and click the pencil/edit icon to select.
- Publisher: All Common Ground community members have free access to our peer review space for their courses. Here they can arrange for students to write multimodal essays or reports in the Creator space (including image, video, audio, dataset or any other file), manage student peer review, coordinate assessments, and share students' works by publishing them to the Community space.

A Digital Learning Platform

Use Scholar to Support Your Teaching

Scholar is a social knowledge platform that transforms the patterns of interaction in learning by putting students first, positioning them as knowledge producers instead of passive knowledge consumers. Scholar provides scaffolding to encourage making and sharing knowledge drawing from multiple sources rather than memorizing knowledge that has been presented to them.

Scholar also answers one of the most fundamental questions students and instructors have of their performance, “How am I doing?” Typical modes of assessment often answer this question either too late to matter or in a way that is not clear or comprehensive enough to meaningfully contribute to better performance.

A collaborative research and development project between Common Ground and the College of Education at the University of Illinois, Scholar contains a Research Network space, a multimedia web writing space, a formative assessment environment that facilitates peer review, and a dashboard with aggregated machine and human formative and summative writing assessment data.

The following Scholar features are only available to Common Ground Research Network members as part of their membership. Please email us at support@cgscholar.com if you would like the complimentary educator account that comes with participation in a Common Ground conference.

- Create projects for groups of students, involving draft, peer review, revision and publication.
- Publish student works to each student’s personal portfolio space, accessible through the web for class discussion.
- Create and distribute surveys.
- Evaluate student work using a variety of measures in the assessment dashboard.

Scholar is a generation beyond learning management systems. It is what we term a Digital Learning Platform—it transforms learning by engaging students in powerfully horizontal “social knowledge” relationships. For more information, visit: <http://knowledge.cgscholar.com>.

Communication & Media Studies Journal

Exploring the role of media, mediation and communications in society

About

The Journal of Communication and Media Studies offers an interdisciplinary forum for the discussion of the role of the media and communications in society. The journal explores everyday experiences of media cultures, the forms and effects of technologies of media and communications, and the dynamics of media business. It also addresses media literacies, including capacities to 'read' and 'use' the media, and the role of media as a key component in formal and informal learning. Contributions to the journal range from broad, theoretical conceptualizations of media, to detailed empirical examinations and case studies of media practices.

The Journal of Communication and Media Studies is peer-reviewed, supported by rigorous processes of criterion-referenced article ranking and qualitative commentary, ensuring that only intellectual work of the greatest substance and highest significance is published.

Reviewers

Articles published in The Journal of Communication and Media Studies are peer reviewed by scholars who are active members of the Communication & Media Studies Research Network. Reviewers may be past or present conference delegates, fellow submitters to the journal, or scholars who have volunteered to review papers (and have been screened by Common Ground's editorial team). This engagement with the Research Network, as well as Common Ground's synergistic and criterion-based evaluation system, distinguishes the peer review process from journals that have a more top-down approach to refereeing. Reviewers are assigned to papers based on their academic interests and scholarly expertise. In recognition of the valuable feedback and publication recommendations that they provide, reviewers are acknowledged as Reviewers in the volume that includes the paper(s) they reviewed. Thus, in addition to The Journal of Communication and Media Studies' Editors and Advisory Board, the Reviewers contribute significantly to the overall editorial quality and content of the journal.

Journal Submission Process and Timeline

Below, please find step-by-step instructions on the journal article submission process:

1. Submit a conference presentation proposal.
2. Once your conference presentation proposal has been accepted, you may submit your article by clicking the “Add a Paper” button on the right side of your proposal page. You may upload your article anytime between the first and the final submission deadlines. (See dates below)
3. Once your article is received, it is verified against template and submission requirements. If your article satisfies these requirements, your identity and contact details are then removed, and the article is matched to two appropriate referees and sent for review. You can view the status of your article at any time by logging into your CGPublisher account at www.CGPublisher.com.
4. When both referee reports are uploaded, and after the referees’ identities have been removed, you will be notified by email and provided with a link to view the reports.
5. If your article has been accepted, you will be asked to accept the Publishing Agreement and submit a final copy of your article. If your paper is accepted with revisions, you will be required to submit a change note with your final submission, explaining how you revised your article in light of the referees’ comments. If your article is rejected, you may resubmit it once, with a detailed change note, for review by new referees.
6. Once we have received the final submission of your article, which was accepted or accepted with revisions, our Publishing Department will give your article a final review. This final review will verify that you have complied with the Chicago Manual of Style (16th edition), and will check any edits you have made while considering the feedback of your referees. After this review has been satisfactorily completed, your paper will be typeset and a proof will be sent to you for approval before publication.
7. Individual articles may be published “Web First” with a full citation. Full issues follow at regular, quarterly intervals. All issues are published 4 times per volume (except the annual review, which is published once per volume).

Submission Timeline

You may submit your article for publication to the journal at any time throughout the year. The rolling submission deadlines are as follows:

- Submission Round 1 – 15 January
- Submission Round 2 – 15 April
- Submission Round 3 – 15 July
- Submission Round 4 (final) – 15 October

Note: If your article is submitted after the final deadline for the volume, it will be considered for the following year’s volume. The sooner you submit, the sooner your article will begin the peer review process. Also, because we publish “Web First,” early submission means that your article may be published with a full citation as soon as it is ready, even if that is before the full issue is published.

Hybrid Open Access

All Common Ground Journals are Hybrid Open Access. Hybrid Open Access is an option increasingly offered by both university presses and well-known commercial publishers.

Hybrid Open Access means some articles are available only to subscribers, while others are made available at no charge to anyone searching the web. Authors pay an additional fee for the open access option. Authors may do this because open access is a requirement of their research-funding agency, or they may do this so non-subscribers can access their article for free.

Common Ground's open access charge is $250 per article—a very reasonable price compared to our hybrid open access competitors and purely open access journals resourced with an author publication fee. Digital articles are normally only available through individual or institutional subscriptions or for purchase at $5 per article. However, if you choose to make your article Open Access, this means anyone on the web may download it for free.

Paying subscribers still receive considerable benefits with access to all articles in the journal, from both current and past volumes, without any restrictions. However, making your paper available at no charge through Open Access increases its visibility, accessibility, potential readership, and citation counts. Open Access articles also generate higher citation counts.

Institutional Open Access

Common Ground is proud to announce an exciting new model of scholarly publishing called Institutional Open Access.

Institutional Open Access allows faculty and graduate students to submit articles to Common Ground journals for unrestricted open access publication. These articles will be freely and publicly available to the whole world through our hybrid open access infrastructure. With Institutional Open Access, instead of the author paying a per-article open access fee, institutions pay a set annual fee that entitles their students and faculty to publish a given number of open access articles each year.

The rights to the articles remain with the subscribing institution. Both the author and the institution can also share the final typeset version of the article in any place they wish, including institutional repositories, personal websites, and privately or publicly accessible course materials. We support the highest Sherpa/Romeo access level—Green.

For more information on how to make your article Open Access, or information on Institutional Open Access, please contact us at support@cgnetworks.org.

Network Membership and Personal Subscriptions

As part of each conference registration, all conference participants (both virtual and in-person) have a one-year digital subscription to The Journal of Communication and Media Studies. This complimentary personal subscription grants access to both the current volume of the collection as well as the entire backlist. The period of complimentary access begins at the time of registration and ends one year after the close of the conference. After that time, delegates may purchase a personal subscription.

To view articles, go to <https://cgscholar.com/bookstore> and select the “Sign in” option. An account in CG Scholar has already been made on your behalf; the username/email and password are identical to your CG Publisher account. After logging into your account, you should have free access to download electronic articles in the bookstore. If you need assistance, select the “help” button in the top-right corner, or contact support@cgscholar.com.

Journal Subscriptions

Common Ground offers print and digital subscriptions to all of its journals. Subscriptions are available to The Journal of Communication and Media Studies and to custom suites based on a given institution’s unique content needs. Subscription prices are based on a tiered scale that corresponds to the full-time enrollment (FTE) of the subscribing institution.

For more information, please visit:

- <http://oncommunicationmedia.com/journal/hybrid-open-access>
- Or contact us at subscriptions@cgnetworks.org

Library Recommendations

Download the Library Recommendation form from our website to recommend that your institution subscribe to The Journal of Communication and Media Studies: <http://cgnetworks.org/support/recommend-a-subscription-to-your-library>.

Communication & Media Studies Book Imprint

Aiming to set new standards in participatory knowledge creation and scholars publication

Call for Books

Common Ground is setting new standards of rigorous academic knowledge creation and scholarly publication. Unlike other publishers, we're not interested in the size of potential markets or competition from other books. We're only interested in the intellectual quality of the work. If your book is a brilliant contribution to a specialist area of knowledge that only serves a small intellectual community, we still want to publish it. If it is expansive and has a broad appeal, we want to publish it too, but only if it is of the highest intellectual quality.

We welcome proposals or completed manuscript submissions of:

- Individually and jointly authored books
- Edited collections addressing a clear, intellectually challenging theme
- Collections of articles published in our journals
- Out-of-copyright books, including important books that have gone out of print and classics with new introductions

Book Proposal Guidelines

Books should be between 30,000 and 150,000 words in length. They are published simultaneously in print and electronic formats and are available through Amazon and as Kindle editions. To publish a book, please send us a proposal including:

- Title
- Author(s)/editor(s)
- Draft back-cover blurb
- Author bio note(s)
- Table of contents
- Intended audience and significance of contribution
- Sample chapters or complete manuscript
- Manuscript submission date

Proposals can be submitted by email to books@cgnetworks.org. Please note the book imprint to which you are submitting in the subject line.

Call for Book Reviewers

Common Ground Research Networks is seeking distinguished peer reviewers to evaluate book manuscripts.

As part of our commitment to intellectual excellence and a rigorous review process, Common Ground sends book manuscripts that have received initial editorial approval to peer reviewers to further evaluate and provide constructive feedback. The comments and guidance that these reviewers supply is invaluable to our authors and an essential part of the publication process.

Common Ground recognizes the important role of reviewers by acknowledging book reviewers as members of the Editorial Review Board for a period of at least one year. The list of members of the Editorial Review Board will be posted on our website.

If you would like to review book manuscripts, please send an email to books@cgnetworks.org with:

- A brief description of your professional credentials
- A list of your areas of interest and expertise
- A copy of your CV with current contact details

If we feel that you are qualified and we require refereeing for manuscripts within your purview, we will contact you.

Communication & Media Studies Conference

Discussing and curating global interdisciplinary spaces, supporting professionally rewarding relationships

Conference Principles and Features

The structure of the conference is based on four core principles that pervade all aspects of the Research Network:

International

This conference travels around the world to provide opportunities for delegates to see and experience different countries and locations. But more importantly, the Communication & Media Studies Conference offers a tangible and meaningful opportunity to engage with scholars from a diversity of cultures and perspectives. This year, delegates from over 30 countries are in attendance, offering a unique and unparalleled opportunity to engage directly with colleagues from all corners of the globe.

Interdisciplinary

Unlike association conferences attended by delegates with similar backgrounds and specialties, this conference brings together researchers, practitioners, and scholars from a wide range of disciplines who have a shared interest in the themes and concerns of this research network. As a result, topics are broached from a variety of perspectives, interdisciplinary methods are applauded, and mutual respect and collaboration are encouraged.

Inclusive

Anyone whose scholarly work is sound and relevant is welcome to participate in this research network and conference, regardless of discipline, culture, institution, or career path. Whether an emeritus professor, graduate student, researcher, teacher, policymaker, practitioner, or administrator, your work and your voice can contribute to the collective body of knowledge that is created and shared by this research network.

Interactive

To take full advantage of the rich diversity of cultures, backgrounds, and perspectives represented at the conference, there must be ample opportunities to speak, listen, engage, and interact. A variety of session formats, from more to less structured, are offered throughout the conference to provide these opportunities.

Plenary

Plenary speakers, chosen from among the world's leading thinkers, offer formal presentations on topics of broad interest to the community and conference delegation. One or more speakers are scheduled into a plenary session, most often the first session of the day. As a general rule, there are no questions or discussion during these sessions. Instead, plenary speakers answer questions and participate in informal, extended discussions during their Garden Conversation.

Garden Conversation

Garden Conversations are informal, unstructured sessions that allow delegates a chance to meet plenary speakers and talk with them at length about the issues arising from their presentation. When the venue and weather allow, we try to arrange for a circle of chairs to be placed outdoors.

Talking Circles

Held on the first day of the conference, Talking Circles offer an early opportunity to meet other delegates with similar interests and concerns. Delegates self-select into groups based on broad thematic areas and then engage in extended discussion about the issues and concerns they feel are of utmost importance to that segment of the community. Questions like "Who are we?", "What is our common ground?", "What are the current challenges facing society in this area?", "What challenges do we face in constructing knowledge and effecting meaningful change in this area?" may guide the conversation. When possible, a second Talking Circle is held on the final day of the conference, for the original group to reconvene and discuss changes in their perspectives and understandings as a result of the conference experience. Reports from the Talking Circles provide a framework for the delegates' final discussions during the Closing Session.

Themed Paper Presentations

Paper presentations are grouped by general themes or topics into sessions comprised of three or four presentations followed by group discussion. Each presenter in the session makes a formal twenty-minute presentation of their work; Q&A and group discussion follow after all have presented. Session Chairs introduce the speakers, keep time on the presentations, and facilitate the discussion. Each presenter's formal, written paper will be available to participants if accepted to the journal.

Colloquium

Colloquium sessions are organized by a group of colleagues who wish to present various dimensions of a project or perspectives on an issue. Four or five short formal presentations are followed by a moderator. A single article or multiple articles may be submitted to the journal based on the content of a colloquium session.

Focused Discussion

For work that is best discussed or debated, rather than reported on through a formal presentation, these sessions provide a forum for an extended “roundtable” conversation between an author and a small group of interested colleagues. Several such discussions occur simultaneously in a specified area, with each author’s table designated by a number corresponding to the title and topic listed in the program schedule. Summaries of the author’s key ideas, or points of discussion, are used to stimulate and guide the discourse. A single article, based on the scholarly work and informed by the focused discussion as appropriate, may be submitted to the journal.

Workshop/Interactive Session

Workshop sessions involve extensive interaction between presenters and participants around an idea or hands-on experience of a practice. These sessions may also take the form of a crafted panel, staged conversation, dialogue or debate—all involving substantial interaction with the audience. A single article (jointly authored, if appropriate) may be submitted to the journal based on a workshop session.

Poster Sessions

Poster sessions present preliminary results of works in progress or projects that lend themselves to visual displays and representations. These sessions allow for engagement in informal discussions about the work with interested delegates throughout the session.

Virtual Lightning Talk

Lightning talks are 5-minute “flash” video presentations. Authors present summaries or overviews of their work, describing the essential features (related to purpose, procedures, outcomes, or product). Like Paper Presentations, Lightning Talks are grouped according to topic or perspective into themed sessions. Authors are welcome to submit traditional “lecture style” videos or videos that use visual supports like PowerPoint. Final videos must be submitted at least one month prior to the conference start date. After the conference, videos are then presented on the research network YouTube channel. Full papers can based in the virtual poster can also be submitted for consideration in the journal.

Virtual Poster

This format is ideal for presenting preliminary results of work in progress or for projects that lend themselves to visual displays and representations. Each poster should include a brief abstract of the purpose and procedures of the work. After acceptance, presenters are provided with a template, and Virtual Posters are submitted as a PDF or in PowerPoint. Final posters must be submitted at least one month prior to the conference start date. Full papers can based in the virtual poster can also be submitted for consideration in the journal.

The reception will be held directly following the last parallel session of the first day, Thursday, 16 November 2017. Join other conference delegates and plenary speakers for drinks, light hors d'oeuvres, and a chance to converse. We look forward to hosting you!

Mario Minichiello

Media and Visual Culture in the Post Truth Political Landscape

Mario Minichiello completed his undergraduate at Leicester Polytechnic and as a postgraduate at Loughborough University, England. Minichiello is currently the Professor of Design and Human Behaviour for the School of Creative Industries at the University of Newcastle, NSW. He is also Director of the Hunter Creative Industries and Technology Institute (HCIT) and the International Research Network “SmartDesign.” He has over thirty years of experience in industry and academia including lead roles in the academy at Leicester DMU University, Birmingham City University, Loughborough University in the UK, and the University of Newcastle in NSW.

Minichiello has the rare distinction of working closely with Birmingham Children’s Hospital, a world leading teaching hospital, and with the Hunter Medical Research Institute, one of the foremost medical research centres in the world. His industry background includes working for the BBC, working for leading design agencies, and working as the political artist for the Guardian Newspaper, among many industry other roles. As both an original practitioner and disruptive thinker, Mario Minichiello also has many years of experience as a journal editor and as a chair of external research and teaching review teams in the UK and AU.

Caja Thimm

Mediatization of the Public Sphere – Fragmentation and Radicalisation on the Rise?

Caja Thimm (PhD) holds a chair in ‘Media Studies and Intermediality’ at the University of Bonn, Germany. She has done extensive research on social communication on the web, e-learning and e-democracy and taught as a visiting scholar at UC Santa Barbara (USA), University of Cardiff (UK), and as a professeur invité at the Université de Bourgogne Dijon (France). She also served as a member of various political committees, such as the State Enquete Commission on “New Media and State Responsibility” and “Trust in Digital Media”.

Caja Thimm was head of the research program “Deliberation Online” (2010–2016) and is now coordinator and principal investigator of the collaborative research program on “Digital Society” (2017–2022). Her publications include: “Political Campaigning During the EU Elections 2014”, “Digital Public Sphere and Mini-Publics”, “Hate Speech as Destructive Online Culture”, and “Digital Society, Datafication and Online Participation.”

Tomas Borsa

Tomas Borsa is an independent researcher currently living and working in London, UK. Tomas holds a Double BA (Hons) in Political Studies & Psychology from the University of Saskatchewan, and an MSc in Politics & Communication (with Distinction) from the London School of Economics. His interests lie mostly in the domains of Indigenous (self) representation, public spheres, and the mediation of social movements. Prior to London, he lived in Vancouver and Saskatoon, where he was at various points a documentary film-maker, journalist, and Research Consultant at Emily Carr University.

Tatiana Gonçalves

Tatiana Gonçalves is an assistant professor in the department of Communication and Arts at the Polytechnic Institute of Viseu, Portugal. She received her Masters degree at the University of Aveiro, Portugal and her PhD at the University of Coimbra, Portugal. Her research interests span media and new technologies, with particular focus on the fields of audiovisual, news media, online journalism and human-computer interaction. She also worked in the private sector from 2001 to 2008 at the Brazilian television network's Rede Globo, where she acquired formal experience in news broadcasting as editor, producer, reporter and news presenter.

Nancy Brian Mbaya

Nancy Brian Mbaya is an indigene of Borno state, North East Nigeria. She holds a Bachelor of Arts degree in Mass Communication and Master Degree in Public Administration from the University of Maiduguri, Nigeria. In her career as a journalist, spanning 27 years, she became Principal News Editor, Controller of News and Current Affairs, Director of News and Current Affairs all in the Borno Radio Television Corporation (BRTV). Nancy is currently a volunteer with the West Cheshire Foodband in Chester, UK. Nancy is studying news media representation of women in conflicts: The Boko Haram Insurgency in Borno, Northeast Nigeria (2012–2015). Her work draws on postcolonial/feminist theories and argues that women representation in journalistic discourse is a reflection of patriarchal values fed by colonialism, religion, culture, and tradition. She is also involved in teaching activities at the Department of Media studies.

Adepate Mustapha-Koiki

Adepate Mustapha-Koiki is a PhD student in Media and Communication at the University of Canterbury, New Zealand. Her research interest is in Conflict Communication, specifically looking at Journalism and Risk in Nigeria - the challenges of reporting on Boko Haram and the impacts of the risks on reporting. As an alumnus of the States Department, International Visitor Leadership Program (IVLP) USA, coupled with her lecturing and research experiences, she aims to provide resources to journalists, public institutions, and government agencies on effective methods of peace reporting and communication - all that was garnered through practical and global standards in research.

Chiemezie Nwosu

With a background in Communications, Chiemezie started her career in industry and worked her way into the lecture room. Her PhD research originates from both her industry and academic experiences, and is thoroughly interdisciplinary; juxtaposing communication, media, politics, and sociology studies, with anthropological methods. Chiemezie's research interests include social media, political communication, African politics, and elections, and her current work examines the role of social media in elections. When she is not doing research, talking about research, or teaching, she enjoys travelling, exploring cuisines (with a rule to try any food at least once), and engaging in diverse musical pursuits.

Ayesha Sadiqa

Ayesha Sadiqa is working as lecturer at School of Media and Communication Studies, University of the Central Punjab, Lahore, Pakistan. She is also a PhD scholar from Punjab University (PU), Lahore. Both universities are the prominent and leading private and Public sector Universities respectively in Pakistan. She has earned her M.Phil. in mass communication with the specialization of research from PU. She got first division throughout her academic career including professional degrees of B.Ed., M.Ed., and TEFL. She has vast experience of teaching at private and public college and universities. She has expertise in research, communication theory, development communication, and women's studies in Media. She has participated in both conferences and seminars. She also conducted workshops as a moderator.

Madison Snider

Madison Snider is a graduate student at the University of Denver in International and Intercultural Communication. Her research interests are in the power of public discourse through street art, performance, and demonstrations. She is particularly interested in how unsanctioned communication in public space is of particular relevance to the ways in which this space is contested. Through ethnography of communication and critical theory, she explores the ways in which these actions are highly localized and grounded in a space and place, but simultaneously employ digital and social media to traverse space and the implications of this mode of dissemination.

Menychle Mesreet

Menychle M. Abebe is lecturer of journalism at the University of Gondar in Ethiopia. He recently finished his second master's degree in Global Journalism at NLA University College in Norway. He is passionate about studying the relationships between media and politics in developing democracies. Previously, Menychle hold his M.A in Journalism and Communications and B.A degree in Print Journalism both at Addis Ababa University, Ethiopia.

Third International Conference on Communication & Media Studies

Founded in 2015, the Communication & Media Studies Research Network offers an interdisciplinary forum for the discussion of the role of the media and communications in society.

18–19 October
2018

University of California,
Berkeley
Berkeley, USA

The Communication & Media Studies Conference attendees include leaders in the field, as well as emerging scholars, who travel to the conference from all corners of the globe and represent a broad range of disciplines and perspectives. A variety of presentation options and session types offer opportunities for attendees to share their work, discuss key issues in the field, and build relationships with attendees.

We invite proposals for paper presentations, workshops/interactive sessions, posters/exhibits, colloquia, innovation showcases, virtual posters, or virtual lightning talks.

Returning Member Registration

We are pleased to offer a Returning Member Registration Discount to delegates who have attended the Communication & Media Studies Conference in the past. Returning research network members receive a discount off the full conference registration rate.
