The CALA 2020 – The (Annual) Conference on Asian Linguistic Anthropology

February 5-8, 2020

Universiti Putra Malaysia, Bintulu, Sarawak, Malaysia

Following the success of the CALA 2019, The Conference on Asian Linguistic Anthropology 2019, in Cambodia, we announce The CALA 2020, February 5-8, 2020, at Universiti Putra Malaysia, Bintulu, Sarawak, Malaysia.

Purpose and Structure

The CALA 2020 invites Linguists, Anthropologists, Linguistic and Cultural Anthropologists, Culturologists, Sociologists, Political Scientists, and those in related fields pertinent to Asia.

Details

Universiti Putra Malaysia, Bintulu, Sarawak, Malaysia, February 5-8, 2020

The first of several videos, by the Chair, Professor Hazlina Abdul Halim (Dean, Department of Foreign Languages, Faculty of Modern Languages & Communication, Universiti Putra Malaysia), is at https://youtu.be/G_f0i3ZsVIM

Partners

- Taylor and Francis Global Publishers (Official Partners)
- Nanyang Technological University
- 100 academic institutions globally (University of Hawai'i, Temple University, University College London, SOAS, Hong Kong Polytechnic University, Indian Institute of Anthropologists, and so forth).
- Scientific Committee of over 100 academics globally prominent in Linguistic Anthropology and related fields

Publications

We advise that several Special Journal issues are planned, as well as a collection of Monographs, from papers submitted to the CALA, that meet the requirements of submission, review and acceptance. The papers selected will all be published with Top-Tier Ranking journals, and their Publishers. Here, ample assistance will be provided to revise manuscripts for publication.

Please note that the CALA represents a fully Non-Profit Organization, and all publishing is FREE. The CALA refuses to implement a pay to publish system, and will always endorse a meritocratic environment for academics, thus refusing to in any way adopt any system that requires the implementation of paid fees. Furthermore, the CALA will always source funding and grants from funding agents to assist those who need funding to access Linguistic Anthropology
