

Acknowledgement

This thesis owes its completion to the constant encouragement and assistance of many people.

Firstly, I would like to express the deepest appreciation to my advisor Dr. Alex Chiang for his encouragement and support at all levels, as well as his patience and understanding. This thesis would never have been completed without his guidance and mentorship. Moreover, I would like to thank all professors at the Department of Diplomacy of National Chengchi University, especially Dr. Bih-jaw Lin and David Chou for their inspiring lectures and attitudes that stimulate my intellectual curiosity and creativity. Many thanks to Dr. Kwei-bo Huang, who gave me ample room for personal development during my two years as his assistant.

I would like to thank the members of the thesis examination committee: Dr. Teh-chang Lin, Institute of Mainland China Studies, National Sun Yat-Sen University, and Dr. Kwei-bo Huang, Department of Diplomacy of National Chengchi University, for reading my thesis and providing detailed and valuable comments, support, and encouragement.

At last, I would like to express my sincere gratitude to many predecessors who work at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs for providing me with the unique opportunity and challenge to learn from them. Furthermore, many thanks to my schoolfellows, friends, and family for encouragement and assistance, which helped me complete this Master program.

Chi, Chien-Hua

Taipei, July 2005