

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Writing this thesis has not been an easy task and yet, it was the assignment that I enjoyed the most during my two years at Cheng Chi University's International Masters' Business Administration (IMBA) Program.

I had to opportunity to meet excellent professionals in the Taiwanese venture capital industry that never hesitated to help me achieve the completion of this paper. Among these I would like to thank Mr. Kevin Lee, Mr. Wei Chang, Darwin Liou, Mr. Liao, Paul Hsu, Chris Sun, Ben Tsai and Stephen Lai. Special thanks to my dear friend Champ Huang, a recent newcomer venture capitalist, and his father, for their advice and support. They're all true examples of the high level of competence that the venture capital industry in Taiwan boasts. Also my most sincere gratitude goes to Chris Liou, who does not work for this industry, but provided me with access to the right people and information that this investigation required.

Having Professor Shen as my thesis advisor was an honor and receiving his feedback was one of the highlights of my learning experience involved with the creation of this paper.

Special thanks also to the friends that unconditionally and constantly gave me a hand, in one way or the other, throughout the period I wrote this thesis; Professor Lin Mei-Hwa, Julian, Susan, Alfonso, Ricky, Jeremy, Leon, Mark, Wendy, Ariel, Jimmy, Edward, George, Laura, Nelly, Cindy, Jim, Lichi, Jean, Dora and my friends William Hsieh and Niklas Ericsson, who helped me with Mandarin and Swedish translations respectively.

Thanks to my brother Esteban, who has always been my guide and mentor in every aspect of life, including this thesis paper.

And finally I want to pay my gratitude to the ICDF and to the Republic of China for giving me the opportunity to upgrade not only my professional career but also my life. Taiwan has been the best country I have ever lived and I love It and its people with all my heart.
